Bermuda National Gallery presents Alban Bassuet: Defining New Platforms of Presentation for the Visual and Performing Arts on Wednesday, May 30th.

The performing and visual/installation arts are undergoing significant changes challenging the traditional relationship between audience/viewers and artworks. The author presents, in a historical context, how music and arts are expanding beyond the bounds of concert halls or museums, from his 20-year experience designing major arts and culture facilities and installations.

Alban Bassuet is an internationally recognized venue and installation designer, planner and acoustician, in the arts and culture built environment. Alban was the director of the recently opened 10,000-acre Tippet Rise Art Center in Montana, awarded as the 2017 North American Museum of the Year, seen today as the new destination for the arts and music in America, where he led the new facility's planning, design and programming. Alban also worked for 15 years at the design and engineering firm Arup in New York, and created the venue concepts of some of the most innovative venues in the world such as the new Greek National Opera House, Le Rosey Concert Hall in Switzerland or the Taipei Asian Pop Music Venue in Taiwan. Pushing the boundaries of representation of the arts, his collaborations include artists such as James Turrell, Ensemble Studio, Ai Wei Wei, Philip Glass, Mark di Suvero, Patrick Dougherty, or Stephen Vitiello, for installations in rural or urban environments such as the Turbine Hall of the London Tate Modern Museum or the NY-Park Avenue Armory. His new company PresenceLab, commercializes ephemeral venue structures for short-term interventions in urban/industrial or natural contexts.

The reception will begin at 5.30pm on the second floor of City Hall, followed by the presentation at 6pm.

Tickets are $10 for BNG Members or $15 for general admission.

For more information, or to purchase tickets, contact director@bng.bm or 295-9428.

Operating models of Bermuda financial institutions have come under review to drive improvements to both the customer experience and the bottom line. In addition, regulators have been expanding the regulatory and compliance requirements for financial institutions since the 2008 financial crisis. Significant investments have been made in people, process and infrastructure. Now, how do we optimize?

Technologies have emerged from the FinTech sector to help satisfy this need. Questions remain: What solutions exist? What actually works? What are others doing? Where and how can the technology be implemented in Bermuda? What is the right solution for your firm?

KPMG wants to help you understand the answers to these questions as well as provide you with insights into the FinTech landscape as it applies to Bermuda by inviting you to their KPMG's FinTech Summit: Embracing Technology on Thursday, May 31st.

From 8am until 6pm at Elbow Beach Hotel, they will be bringing together professionals from around the world to share what is happening now, what the future may hold and show you demonstrations and real life examples of the solutions in action.

You will hear from over 15 local and global industry leaders from KPMG, KPMG Matchi, IBM and Oracle plus a key note address from Premier, the Hon. David Burt, JP, MP. This group of professionals will share their insights and host short-form demos so you can see technology in action. You will hear about: The latest in RegTech and future trends; Automating regulatory compliance; The realities of Blockchain; How RPA is transforming operating models; Leveraging data and analytics; and Finding the right fintech partner for you.

Confirmed speakers include Premier, the Hon. David Burt, JP, MP, Charles Thresh (Managing Partner, Head of Advisory KPMG Bermuda), Kathleen Faries (Head of Bermuda, TMR), Laura Taylor (Managing Partner and CFO, Nephila Capital), Mark Allitt (Managing Director, KPMG Bermuda), Jason Kelly (IBM), Eamonn Maguire (Managing Director, KPMG, US Lead for Blockchain), and David Milligan (CEO, Matchi).

The cost is $435 and registration is available on www.pTix.bm.

For more information, or to be added to a wait-list should tickets be sold out, contact info@kpmg.bm.

Due to over whelming demand for tables, you can find twice the bargains this month since there will be an extra Peace Lutheran Church Car Boot Sale on Saturday, June 2nd.

As usual, from 9am until 2pm, they will have great bargains in clothing for men, women, children and babies, shoes, toys, household items, plants, DVDs, CDs, jewellery, books, bags and so much more. Their regular monthly sale will still be on June 16th.

You can also enjoy coffee, soup and hot dogs whilst shopping. For more information, contact Carol Carvalho on 747-3377.
